BIG CLASS GRADUATED

Forty-Three Young People Receive Diplomas From Douglas College

EXERCISES IMPRESSIVE

Rev. Andrew M. Shea, D. D. of McKeesport Makes Address to the Class

Rejoicing in the forceful motto, "Aim to be Worthy" 43 bright young people were Friday night at the high school auditorium presented diplomas as graduates of Douglass Business college. Commencement exercises were characterized by a certain fine simplicity that was impressive. Rev. Andrew M. Shea, D. D., of McKeesport, made the address to the graduating class, and gave some wholesome thoughts that the young folks will remember.

Decorations were simple. What was more pronounced was the pretty picture formed by the smiling young graduates seated in three rows on the stage. The pink rose, which is the class flower was in evidence, each girl carrying a boquet and each young man wearing a rose.

After an overture by the Palace theatre orchestra, the program proper begun when Rev. John R. Burson said the invocation. Miss Evelyn M. Whitney, had the first oration. It was on the subject of "Progress." Miss Whitney treated her theme intelligently and by her exposition of facts pertaining to the rapid development of affairs as well as by her review of past events, won hearty commendation.

Miss Leona L. McCanch gave a somewhat remarkable demonstration of touch typewriting. Miss McCanch first wrote from selected copy at the rate of about 80 words a minute. Then she wrote a test sentence at a rate of close to 150 words a minute, and followed that with a demonstration of typewriting while blindfolded.

"Our Class" was the title of a peppery paper that Miss Bessie E. Reilly gave. The paper treated of interesting familiarities of each member of the class, with a humerous anecdote or original pun to punctuate the meaning and significance of each item of her production. The vivacious periodical occasioned many a laugh.

Miss Mazie E. Carter had an oration on the subject, "Aim to be Worthy"—the class motto. Miss Carter very ably handled this theme, emphasizing the necessity for thorough preparation on the part of the young people for their life work. She told of the need of a definite aim in the life struggle, and as one proof of her assertions, illustrated by referring to the life of the great discoverer, Christopher Columbus.

Rev. Andrew M. Shea, D. D., in his address spoke interestingly and entertaingly of things pertaining to a successful life as viewed from all standpoints. He said that the motto of the class indicated the intention of the graduates, and suggested to them that they remember it. He urged the young people to be on the lookout to seize opportunities, to be heroic in taking advantage of them, and to always live a clean, pure life. Command of one's self and a good pres-

HUNTING HIS TEAM

Leslie Woodward Still Scouting For Supposedly Stolen Horses

SECURES COME CLUES

Leslie Woodward, brother of Guy and S. L. Woodward, of Charleroi, the California liveryman who believes that a team was stolen from him last Tuesday morning, was here this morning in an effort to locate his horses.

Mr. Woodward scoured the country between California and Morgantown Friday in his automobile, but the only trace he got of the team was at Clarksville, where a team answering the description was seen Tuesday evening. There were two men in the buggy, one whose description tallied with that of the man who hired the team to make the trip to Millsboro and Fredericktown. He was a short, heavy set man, with a black mustach. A tall, slender man was with him.

The team was a pair of nine-year old blacks, weighing about ten and eleven hundred pounds, respectively one a trotter and the other a pacer. The special markings of the trotter were two white hind feet and a little white in forehead, and of the pacer, a little white spot on one hind feet, and a scar on the left knee. The harness was brass mounted. The buggy was a red, rubber-tired vehicle.

STEP-LADDERS GO RAPIDLY AT THE WOODWARD STORE

It took just three-quarters of an hour for Woodward's Furniture store on McKean avenue to dispose of 50 stepladders this morning, and the reason for the quick work was a four line advertisement inserted six times on two days in the Charleroi Mail. The sale began at 8 o'clock and ended at 8:45, but even after this there were several inquiries for stepladders.

REV. HACKETT TO PREACH FAREWELL SERMON SUNDAY

JUNE TEMPERATURES BEAT ALL RECORDS

Weather Statistics From North Charleroi Government Yard Show High Totals---Best Mark is 118 in the Sun

This has been the hottest June for several years, and the last three days have been almost record breakers. The following is the temperature for the last three days as noted at noon by R. A. Roberts at the government yards at North Charleroi, giving the records in the shade and in the sun:

	In shade	In sun
Wednesday, June 24,	95	116
Thursday, June 25,	93	110
Friday, June 26,	86	105

June 9 was the hottest day so far this year the thermometer at noon registering 97 in the shade and 118 in the sun. The hottest day last summer only surpased this record by two degrees, which was July 1, when the thermometer registered 99 in the shade.

The hottest day in June last year was June 16, when the mercury climbed to 94 degrees. The weather in June last year was unusually cool, the thermometer at one time registering only 42 degrees.

WYATT HOME FROM ABROAD

Charleroi Man Who is Engaged in Grand Opera Work Taking Rest

After having been engaged in grand opera study and work in Italy, and Germany, Charles Wyatt, of Charleroi, with his wife, has returned home for a short rest before again taking up musical work. Mr. Wyatt left the United States about two years ago to study in Milan, Italy, for grand opera. He had much success in his work, and some months ago made his debut in Italy as Lord Ashton in the famous opera "Lucia di Lammermoor." Since then Mr. Wyatt has appeared in various operas among them being La Traviata, La Tosca and others similarly noted. He sings a baritone role. Lately Mr. Wyatt has been in Berlin.

Mr. Wyatt and his wife will probably spend about a week here at the home of his father, L. F. Wyatt, and then leave for George to visit with Mrs. Wyatt's people. After that they will travel to Vermont and then arrangements will be made for work this fall. Mr. Wyatt is uncertain yet whether he will take up grand opera work or whether he will make a concert tour of the United States.

At the proper time the children will go to the altar in pairs and receive their first holy communion.

The girls will be dressed in white and will wear veils. They will each carry beads and a prayer book and wear a small gold pin that will in future years remind them of the occassion.

BENTLEYVILLE YOUNG MAN HAS VARIED CAREER

Charles Smith, of Bentleyville has received a most interesting letter from his son, who is a traveler of wide experience. At present Charles, Jr., is mining and prospecting in the open fields of Southern Africa. Not more than a year ago the younger Smith invested $10,000 in a South African mining town and business was flourishing until a typhoon swept the land, devastating everything in its path. It resulted that Smith lost everything he had tied up in the enterprise. Smith, Jr., prospected throughout the entire state of Transvaal. He writes that immense fortunes are made and lost daily in that section, he himself having had more than the mentioned experience.

He was a soldier in the British navy at one time. During his career as a solider he traveled extensively, visiting Malta, Gibraltar, China in different sections, throughout India and all parts of the British Isles.

The letter sent to his father was postmarked "Bullaway, Rhodesio." The letter also contained native postcards picturing the founder of Rhodesia, Cecil Rhodes by name, and other pictures of the customs of the natives and the scenery. Animals are numerous and ferocious, the latter reports.

Charles, Jr., at present prospectling for gold and diamonds, declares that if fortune were to favor him by letting him get a goodly sum ahead once more he would quit the stormswept country and come back to "God's own" for a short time at least.

Now Looking For His Ear

Monessen Man Suffers Loss of Organ When Storekeeper Chews on It

Mike Guero, a Monessen foreigner, is marked for life unless some person finds portions of his ear said to have been chewed off in an encounter with Serephrim Billato, and properly glues them on. Guero entered the store of Billato, the story goes, to purchase something, and an argument of some sort arose over the attentions the son of one was paying to the daughter of the other. Guero is claimed to have fired a gun, and Billato is alleged to have landed upon Guero's shoulders and to have started chewing at Guero's ear. He made the ear of the latter look like the map of Turkey just after the Balkan war. Guero was arrested.

DROWNED IN RIVER

Edward Kimble Falls From Ferry Boat at Coal Center to Death

END IS SENSATIONAL

Calls Out to Companions "I'm Not Comin Back" as he Enters the Stream

With the words, "I am not coming back any more," Edward Kimble, aged 30 years, sank from sight in the waters of the Monongahela river at Coal Center, Friday night at 8:45 o'clock, not to again be seen until his lifeless body was drawn from the water by searching parties 2 hours later.

Kimble with some of his friends had been sitting on the ferry boat at Coal Center the greater part of the afternoon. It is alleged that they had been drinking. Suddenly without a word Kimble threw up his hands and fell backwards into the river by the side of the boat. He swam a short distance before he went down.

He came to California from Clarksburg, W. Va., last April, where he had been employed by the railroad company, and got employment at Vesta No. 4 mine. He boarded at Mrs. Jennie Lee's boarding house in California. He was single. His father, Joseph Kimble, lives at Comesville, O. The majority of his relatives live at Welton and Columbus, O. The body was taken to the undertaking rooms of H. T. Ghrist at California, and is being held awaiting instructions from relatives.

NEW EAGLE ROAD MATTER NOW UP TO THE BOROUGH

The state department of public highways has sent out the statement that the state is ready to do their part of the work of fixing the road through New Eagle borough to Riverview, and from there to join the stretch of improved road that extends from Riverview to Crookham, and then from Crookham station to Finleyville. The matter is now up to New Eagle and the Pittsburg Railways Company to get together. A year or so ago the state agreed to put the road through, but New Eagle borough expected the Pittsburg Railways company to provide streets and the state road was then considered unnecessary.

The railways company does not seem to be ready to pave the borough streets along its tracks, and since the borough cannot afford to do the work itself, the only thing left to do is co-operate with the state department and the railways company to secure the new road.

THEY'RE FEELING FOOLISH.

The Bull Moose newspapers are making frantic efforts to back out of an embarrassing position the Young-Powell combination at Harrisburg has got them into, says the Donora American editorially. Speaking of the million dollar auto license fund held up by these sanctified public servants a Bull Moose paper said last week that there was never any doubt about the matter and that all Archie and Bobbie wanted was to have the sanction of the court, the auditor general having "held the money up for his own protection as well as for the protection of the people he represesents." Continuing, this able and well informed defender said:

"Now that the court has removed his (Powell's) responsibility, he can most cheerfully turn the money into the channel where it belongs, and feel that he has performed his duty according as he interpreted the law and not as it was interpreted by others."

Since the money was not "most cheerfully turned into the channel where it belongs," we are led to believe that Young and Powell, the champion good roads sprags, chose to further stand between the people and the expenditure of their own money, the people's wishes and the decision of the court being of secondary consideration to their high principles and purposes.

got so worked up that he threwR

This Bull Moose Editor we speak of says the American got so worked up that he threw caution to the wind and delivered himself of this one:

"Now that the money is in the hands of the Highway Department, that officialdom can appropriately continue Mr. Powell's prudent care of the public funds by sending it economically and judicially."

There's modesty for you and as near accuracy as a Bull Mooser usually gets. This Bull Moose editor, like all his fellows, simply took a thing for granted, fixed it up in press agent style so the dear people would swallow it whole and breathe a prayer for the whole clique from the colonel down.

It is a down right shame that Archie and Robert spoiled the effect of this brilliant exposition of the noble principles that actuated them. But it is no more than cold have been expected. You just simply can't [illegible] porker, as any Bull Moose editor who tries the stunt is bound to realize sooner or later.

VACATION PHILOSOPHY.

Do not spend more money than you can readily afford to spend. No benefit accrues from trying to squeeze a $100 vacation out of a $50 appropriation, advises the Indianapolis News. It is far better on the contrary to take a $25 vacation with your $50 allowance. You will enjoy it more because you will not be harassed and nagged by the fear of lack of means or by the necessity of counting every cent and of getting the utmost out of every nickel.

Some persons, perhaps may not mind this sort of mental labor, with its attendant worry, but the most of us do. We invariably discount it, however, before the vacation is begun, only to regret it as soon as we are started. And the secret of the art of getting the most out of vacation lies in foreseeing this regret and forestalling it—in having not only barely enough money, but more than enough to do what you plan to do.

It is better to take a trolley ride and come home solvent than to journey to the seashore and pawn your watch to get back. Vacation ought to afford freedom from vexation and not merely result in changing a familiar care.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

Of course a newspaper man always knows he can fix up a story better than the man who gives it to him and the advertising and job men in their departments are absolutely certain there is not the least possible chance for any other person possessing the ability to prepare advertising or job copy as well as they, but just the same they like to be informed as to what people desire without going to the trouble of transforming themselves into mental telepathists.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

A party of three boys of an average age of nine years, following a common juvenile plan, fixed up an ice cream "stand" in the doorway of a vacant Fifth street store room, one afternoon. Business seemed good, and other "kids" of the neighborhood, who hadn't been enterprising enough to think of this wonderful scheme for gathering in a few simoleans showed considerable jealousy.

One lad became fretful and fussy and he located himself on the curb in front of the stand from which point of vantage, he, between spells of quietude and gazing at the business-like promoters, delivered himself of a sarcistically demanded:

prietors.

The make-believe busy storekeepers stood this inconvenience as long as they could, maintaining a dignified silence for business reasons. But finally the "manager" of the concern ordered the bothersome "kid" to scoot from that immediate region, climaxing his order with a very definite promise of things to happen, if he did not do his scooting instanter.

The "kid" on the curbing never moved, but stolidly stood there, and sacastically demanded:

"Let's see you move me."

The "manager" was out of his "store" in an instant. As he headed for the curbing, his annoyer backed away. Half way across the street the procession continued, then the "manager," yelled: "Guess ye moved, didn't ye."

Delivered of that convincing bit of sarcasm, he turned on his heel and reentered the store. The other followed him back and resumed his position on the curb before he opened his mouth.

Then he, with all the hatred and bitterness he could put into his tones retorted sharply, "No."

With that he meandered away, whistling to show his utter contempt of the manager, who did nothing but blink.

Two of the three children of a Charleroi family began an argument the other evening that promised developments. The oldest of the trio, assuming an attitude of neutrality looked on for a while, then walked into another room where his father was.

"Pa, what does mediate mean?" he asked. When told it meant to settle differences of two or more persons or parties, he queried to ascertain the meaning of differences. Fully informed he stood a moment thinking. Then he burst out:

"Well, say you come and mediate differences between Tad and Carl."

AMONG THE THEATRES

COYLE—CHARLEROI

Telling a heart-interest story of interwoven circumstances peculiar to life, "The Link in the Chain," shown in two reels at the Coyle theatre the fore part of this week was one of the leading specials in the six days' program. There were other specials, and "The Embezzler," also a heart-interest story, was one. On Monday "Double Knot," in two reels was shown, and on Tuesday in addition to other photoplay productions a feature was "Hearts and Swords." Wednesday's headliners were "Silent Sandy" in two reels, "The Alarm" in two reels, and "The Last of Their Race." Saturday features will include "Shorty's trip to Mexico," in two reels and "Lucille Love," in two reels.

LYRIC—CHARLEROI

The Famous photoplay actor, Arthur Johnson, was shown at his best in a production entitled "Behind the Footlights" at the Lyric theatre Wednesday evening. All this week special attraction pictures have featured the program at the Lyric." Under Desperation's Spur" was an intensely dramatic picture that portrayed an impressive story with a good moral effect. "The Redskins and the Renegade" a western drama was another of the leading features. "Fraid Cat" an excellent picture portrayed the part a small boy played in warding off burglars. The Hearst Selig news pictorial was exceptionally interesting this week with its host of pictured current events. Other good features of the week were "The Road to Plain Dale," and "Good Resolution."

PALACE—CHARLEROI

This week was celebrated as banner week at the Palace theatre in the way of high clas productions. Each day this week seven reels of the best and most expensive motion pictures were shown. Not only were the pictures excellent in theme but also in the way in which they were produced. Among the players who appeared in the leading roles were such noted performers as Mary Fuller, Beverly Bayne, Florence Turner, Maurice Costello, Arthur Johnson and Francis X Bushman. One of the best pictures was "Coils of Calamity" a four part drama. "The Monster and the Girl" was another exciting and interesting drama that carried with it a pretty love tale. Other good features were "The Mystery of the Hidden House," "The Bottled Spider" and "When Love is Young."

GRAND—PITTSBURG

Having proved its mettle in musical comedy and farce, the new Harry Davis Stock company is planning to present a virile America drama on Monday afternoon, June 29 and each afternoon and evening thereafter for one week. They will play William Vaugh Moody's remarkable three-act drama entitled "The Great Divide." It was in this play that Henry Miller and Margaret Anglin achieved their greatest successes. Two of its three acts happen in Arizona, first in the interior of Philip Jordan's ranch house on the Gila Desert and then outside of Stephen Ghent's cabin in the Catalina Mountains. In the third and last act there is a complete shift of locale, the scene representing a sitting room in the home of Mrs. Jordan, at Milford Corners, Mass. Here we have in scenic effect the greatest possible contest against the quaint, plain and pastoral simplicity of New England. There is the same contrast in the leading characters, for Stephen Ghent is a rough-hewn man, a blunt, crude Westerner, while Ruth Jordan is a cultured woman of the East. Their lives are interlaced by a seeming inexorable destiny and they are brought together in the Arizona desert under the most romantic circumstances. The scene before the woman's cabin, into which a drunken ruffian is attempting to force his way is perhaps one of the most unusual and intensely gripping situations that the pen of latter day dramatists has conceived. The play will not alone afford the Davis company an excellent chance to prove its versatility but will also provide the stage director and scenic artist with a free hand for pictorial effects. The cast will employ the entire company. Mr. Miller's original character will be played by Edward Lynch, Miss Anglin's by Anne Bronaugh.

RESULTS TELL

There Can Be No Doubt About the Results in Charleroi.

Results tell the tale.
All doubt is removed.
The testimony of a Charleroi citizen.
Can be easily investigated.
What better proof can be had?

Mrs. Rowe, 1005 McKean Ave., Charleroi, Pa., says: "For some time one of the family thought he had rheumatism. He suffered from severe pains in his back and limbs and found it hard to stoop to put on his shoes. Every fall and winter he was bothered. He finally got Doan's Kidney Pills from Piper's Pharmacy and began taking them. In a short time he felt much better. I used this remedy some years ago and know that it lives up to the claims made for it."

Confirmed Proof.

On January 29, 1914, Mrs. Rowe said: "I am willing to have you continue using my name recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. They have never failed to rid us of kidney disorders. I advise anyone being bothered with their kidneys to try this remedy."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Rowe had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

IN SUCH PAIN WOMAN CRIED

Suffered Everything Until Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Florence, So. Dakota.—"I used to be very sick every month with bearing down pains and backache, and had headache a good deal of the time and very little appetite. The pains were so bad that I used to sit right down on the floor and cry, because it hurt me so and I could not do any work at those times. An old woman advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I got a bottle. I felt better the next month so I took three more bottles of it and got well so I could work all the time. I hope every woman who suffers like I did will try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound." — Mrs. P. W. LANSENG, Route No. 1, Florence, South Dakota.

Why will women continue to suffer day in and day out or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Notice.

Sealed proposals will be received by John M. Hill secretary of the school district of the Borough of Charleroi until Monday evening July 6 at 7 o'clock for the furnishing of paper goods, pencils and supplies for the schools for year 1914-1915.

TRESPASSERS TO BE CHASED FROM RAILROAD

Beginning July 1 the Pennsylvania Railroad will inaugurate a vigorous campaign against the trespasser. The word trespasser in this campaign will not apply alone to the men who are riding in out-of-the-way places on trains without having gone through the formality of purchasing a ticket but is to apply to all persons except employes who walk on railroad property. Those hardest hit will be summer campers and people living in temporary cottages close to the railroad tracks who have been in a habit of using the tracks for a foot path. The campaign is being started at this time because of the great number of people from cities who are in outings along the lines of the Pennsylvania.

The Monongahela Railroad officials have received coal rates over the P. & L. E. railroad from the Buckhannon and Northern railroad to all parts of the P. & L. E. R. R. system. The rates are charged from all points along the B. & N. railroad to any destination east or west of Pittsburg, governing Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Missouri, Michigan, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Vermont, Delaware and Maryland and West Virginia by Western Maryland railroad. The rate is somewhat higher than that used in the Pittsburg district although no shipments have been made as yet.
